Mourning Sin

"Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted." (Matthew 5:4)

We live in a world corrupted by sin. We should not be surprised by injustice, evil, hatred, violence, greed, sexual misconduct, etc. because we live in a sinful world. At the same time, we should not grow complacent or indifferent towards sin.

How should we respond to the various forms of sin in this world? We might be tempted to try and offer solutions as if we can fix the problems. We might be filled with anger and want to lash out at the world. We might want to make excuses and attempt to justify bad behavior. Sin often creates more sin because we are divided on how to respond.

When we encounter sin in the world, no matter the form, we should begin where God begins. We should lament. We should mourn. We should be deeply saddened to live in a world where violence, injustice, greed, sexual abuse, etc. are found. We may disagree on how best to address these things, but we should be united in mourning the existence of sin. Don't give in to anger. Don't try and justify it. Don't think you can fix all the problems in the world. When you hear about sin, stop and mourn. Lament. Cry out to God. Let's stand with God and be united in our response to sin.
