Plan to Love

“Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God; and everyone who loves is born of God and knows God.” (1 Jn 4:7)

I’m not one for New Year’s workout plans, but I do know what it’s like to spend too much time coming up with a plan instead of just doing the plan. The same holds true with our personal plans. It’s tempting to sit around dreaming about what we would do if only we had the money or the time or the unique opportunity. But all that planning for the future takes us away from the one thing all of us can do right now: love the people around us.

God isn’t impressed when we go on another beach vacation. He delights when we go across the street. Go change the world from where you are, while you’re moving towards where you wish you were. Changing the world turns out to be easier and harder than we tend to make it: it’s easier because it doesn’t take as much money or time as we think it will, but it’s harder because, like the workouts we avoid, it takes courage, commitment, and sacrifice to love others.

It’s ok for us to make plans, but don’t forget there’s a big difference between always preparing and actually starting. You don’t have to take all the steps—just the next one. Love others.

Aaron
