Do Justice

Last Sunday night, I mentioned that the words "righteousness" and "justice" are found more times in the book of Isaiah than in all the books of the law (Gen-Deut) combined. Justice is a theme throughout scripture.

"To do righteousness and justice is desired by the Lord more than sacrifice." (Prov 21:3)

"Learn to do good; seek justice, reprove the ruthless, defend the orphan, plead for the widow." (Isa 1:17)

"He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" (Micah 6:8)

The phrase "do justice" is found multiple times in the Bible. Micah famously tells us that this is what God requires of us. God does not require us to critique the justice efforts of others. We are not called to offer an opinion on how others think justice should be done. What God wants us to do is clear. We are to do justice. Will our efforts be perfect? Probably not because we are human. We will make mistakes, and so will others, but we are to keep doing justice. We are to correct oppression. We are to take up the cause of the widow, orphan, alien, and anyone else who is being oppressed. We are to do justice. Don't worry about someone else's fallen attempts at justice. Focus on what you can do. This is what God desires.
