Family

We have witnessed the blessings of online worship in the last year and a half, but are there any reasons for concern? We live in an age where individualism is celebrated and cherished. This has not led to more freedom. Instead, we have seen loneliness, depression, and suicide rates skyrocket. Choosing to be by ourselves rather than being with others is not wise.

The New Testament describes the church as spending a lot of time together (Acts 2:46) and meeting together (Heb 10:25). We need one another, and we need to be present for others. We come together to encourage and strengthen each other because we are family. Imagine if a family each had their own rooms, and they stayed in those rooms and only watched their other family members on a screen. What kind of family would they be in five or ten years?

The church cannot exist without coming together. We can get sermons and worship songs anywhere online. What is unique about church is meeting together around the Lord's table, hugging each other in the foyer, sharing the burdens of others, and serving alongside each other.

It is a great blessing that churches all over the world can share their worship with others, but it is an even greater blessing that churches made up of people exist all over the world to be the body of Christ to one another and to the communities in which they reside.
